But now it turns out that Technoboss's Hyrule Warriors Legends is already so old that it has its own dedicated repost... and there's even a video that shows it in action. Given how it was still in development when this Hyrule Warriors Legends review came out, it's no surprise to see the new game in action by this point too. Suppression of adhesion molecule CD44 on the surface of T cells during hemodialysis is reversed by uremic toxin and requires vitamin D and iron. Vitamin D and iron are important for normal immune function. Recently, we have demonstrated that the ability of vitamin D and iron to suppress in vitro T-cell activation is mediated in part by inhibition of adhesion molecule CD44 and IL-2 and interferon (IFN) gamma.

Chronic hemodialysis (HD) is associated with low levels of 1alpha-hydroxyvitamin D3, a major precursor of vitamin D. HD patients have immune dysfunctions, which may be associated with hemodialysis, including increased levels of inflammatory cytokines and a decrease in cytokines promoting T-cell activation and proliferation. To test whether cytokines modulating T-cell function are modulated by hemodialysis, T-cell function was examined. Cultured peripheral blood mononuclear cells (PBMCs) from both healthy individuals and HD patients were suppressed with the addition of vitamin D and iron and an inflammatory stimulus, lipopolysaccharide (LPS). Adhesion molecule CD44 expression on T cells and the potential suppressive cytokines, IL-10, IFN-gamma, and transforming growth factor beta were examined by flow cytometry. We found that both HD patients and healthy individuals were suppressed by treatment with vitamin D and iron, as determined by decreased CD44 expression on T cells after LPS stimulation.

However, HD patients also demonstrated suppression of CD44 expression in the absence of vitamin D and iron. T-cell suppression with vitamin D and iron was associated with increased concentrations of IL-10 and IFN-gamma, suggesting a protective role for these agents. In contrast, IL-10 and IFN-gamma were not increased in the HD group. These results suggest that increased levels of both IL-10 and IFN-gamma in the HD group may contribute to the maintenance of reduced T-cell activation.
